The Story of SheCodes

SheCodes Workshops

SheCodes was started in late 2017 in Lisbon, Portugal. We teach women how to code in order to work towards decreasing the gender gap in the tech industry.

Our founder, Matt, originally had the goal of teaching only 10 women how to code. However, in the first workshops, the students loved the idea of SheCodes much more than he could've imagined.

So, what began as just an idea started to transform into an actual company.

SheCodes 31.0, February 2020

Matt decided to develop the company and grow the workshops. Our onsite workshops grew 5x in size just two and a half years after the company's beginning. We updated and improved the workshops with each new onsite version. 💪💻

Over the years, we taught beginner onsite workshops in Lisbon, Porto, and Braga. We also developed two advanced workshops, SheCodes Plus and SheCodes React, for students who wanted to continue their coding journey with SheCodes. 😍

Online Expansion

We then decided to migrate all of our coding workshops to an online platform to make them available to an even wider audience. We now only offer online workshops.

We now offer our beginner workshop and three advanced workshops fully online; students can buy these workshops separately or as part of a package.

Our workshops have now taught tens of thousands women from 196 countries how to code to this date. 🙌 The overall average rating for our workshops is 4.9/5. 😄We're so proud of how far we've come!
SheCodes Founder

Matt Delac is our founder and main instructor for all SheCodes workshops. He is a full-stack engineer with over 10 years of development experience.

When Matt was first entering the coding world, many of his professors in school told him he should pursue a different career path.

He persevered and became a successful developer after university, though, working for companies like Google and Airbnb. This sense of persistence entering the tech world is one of the reasons he is such a wonderful teacher for SheCodes.

We 💜 our founder.

The SheCodes Team

The SheCodes team is currently working remotely from Europe and the United States. We're a very international team with members from France, Czech Republic, Denmark, USA, and Portugal. We all have a passion for technology and emojis 😅 🏝️ 💻
